HOOPSKIRTS COMING AGAIN.

THREATENED WAVE OF CRINO-LINES FROM OUT THE WEST.

What Won't the Fiatiron Breezes Do With the Fashion of 40 Years Ago! Is Our Subway Ing Enough? End Seat Hog Is Doomed - Modistes in Doubting Mood

The crinoline has come again. It has hit that center of fashion and culture, Pittsburg. Inevitably it will sweep on to provincial New York. Even as we go to press there comes the rumor that the sumer corps of Pittsburg visitors, including sixteen millionaires' wives, is on the way to New York dressed in crinolines. Two special cars with extra wide doors will carry them to the metropolis.

When autumn is balmy upon the Rialto. men and other lower animals will have to walk in the streets. There will be no room on the sidewalks.

It is a matter of forty years since the hoopskirt flourished in New York. Subways and escalators and Flatiron buildings and a great many other new and strange things have happened since that time. When Breadway blossoms with the autumn crop of crinolines, the oldest inhabitant won't know little old New York.

There's the Flatiron, for example. The belle of 1865 was used to breezes which blew in only one direction at a time. Even then she had her troubles. Those "glimpsing ankles" which you read about in ters de société of war times -there will be many a glimpse of more than ankles before the

When the Flatiron wind is at its merriest, when the Flatifon wind is at its merriest, it has a way of rising straight up, as all the paraders know. What will happen to a hoopskirt in an off-s, reet wind? What happens to an utul rella when the wind catches it on the under side? Possibly the modistes will fill the hem with five pounds of shot, as they used to treat riding habits in the days of the full skirt. If the shot does its work well, when the Flatifon habits in the days of the full skirt. If the shot does its work well, when the Flatiron breeze is at its wildest and wickedest the Flatiron rubbernecks will enjoy the pleasant spectacle of an atmosphere filled with ficating fall tolletter, blown to the level of the second story windows like stray university.

And the dressm, or, when she takes e order for a skirt, will say. "Yes, madame. With or without the

Then there is the open car. Here, the crinoline will work one mighty reform. There will be no more end seat hog. As she mounts the step and sweeps to her seat, everything will sweep before her. No more squeezing past knees. Reform will follow in street car manners. No man so bold as to keep his seat with thirty-six yards of crepe dechine, or whatever women yards of ctepe dechine, or whatever women make 'em of, crinkling against his legs, and a gridiron arrangement playing a tattoo on his knees. The most absent-thinded reader of the evening papers will stand—if there is any place to stan! with a row of cr.nolines on toth sides of the car. Imagination fails, when it comes to rush him to the content of t lour on the subway. Strikes and broken water mains will be only minor incidents in the troubles of Mr. Belmont. It is 6 o'clock, and the Lenox avenue express which should have pulled out three minutes. use is still there. All the cars have sig-used "go ahead" except No. 2. "What the blazes is the matter wid youse?"

vells back the conductor to gateman No. 2 yells back the conductor to gateman No. 2.

"Cheese it and come back and help!"
yells gateman No. 2. "Another loidy tuck in her hoopskirt!" And the station master rings up the wrecking crew.

'Take up the crinoline?" said Mrs. Robert Oshorne yesterday. "I think not. Women the more independent of fashion nowadays than they were in the 'as. They won't take up anything so inconvenient and to up anything so inconvenient and

"Ze crinoline?" said the head cutter at Ledfern's. "Nevaire!" There was a whole interview in the way she said it.

A TEA HOUSE FOR THE VILLAGE. Two Girls to Supply a Long Felt Want to a Long Island Town This Summer.

Two girls are going to add a foreign asject to a Long Island summer village this season. # In every detail the Leading Retail Establishment of Brooklyn.

The Summer White Sale.

In Magnitude, in Character of the Mer-chandise, in Variety and in Value Giving, the Greatest in Brooklyn's History.

THE OCCASION ANNOUNCED TO-DAY is widely famous. Thousands of women in Brooklyn, on Long Island and for many miles about have been awaiting it. Thousands will take advantage of the economies it presents and will buy at least a season's supply of Undermuslins and kindred wear. It reaches a new level in value giving. In

The success of these Sales is NOT AN ACCIDENT. They have grown because they deserve to grow; because they presented the opportunity to buy for specially low prices FINER UNDERMUSLINS than were sold for such prices at any other season or in any other store.

These Sales have been imitated—naturally. Most successful things have imitators. Already a flock of "white sales" have been announced and have given opportunity to judge by comparison of the merit of the great occasion announced But there is ONLY ONE LOESER WHITE SALE and it is not and never has been a scramble to sell a volume of skimpy, unsatisfactory garments for a few pennies apiece. It is and always will be a dignified, far reaching and successful effort to sell to women of discrimination garments that will give thorough satisfaction and for definite savings in price.

HIGH QUALITY Is the Keynote of the Sale. The Savings Are the Greatest We Have Ever Known.

Here are details. The Sale starts at eight, sharp, to-morrow, with a vast added space given over to the stocks, with
